

Extradition Proceedings Preparing To Take C. C. Julian Back To U.S.

Promoter May Face Income Tax Default Charges

Government to Proceed Even if Accused Man is Not Present

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6.—C. C. Julian, spectacle Canadian born oil promoter, failed to appear as the government called to trial more than 50 persons charged with using the mails to defraud in the sale of stocks in the C. C. Julian and Royalties Company.

District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde indicated he would ask for the $25,000 bond posted by Julian, who surrendered to officers taking refuge in Canada, his mother, who was arrested at a hotel whereabout are not known, asserted he could not get a fair trial in the United States. He was born of Irish parentage near Morris, Manitoba.

SEEK EXTRADITION

Hyde has said he would ask Julian's extradition for alleged income tax default. The extradition treaty between Canada and United States does not cover mail fraud cases.

The federal district court room was crowded with defendants the government regarded as principals Julian, Lamar S. Boling, Sam Allen, allegedly his original financial backer, C. C. Julian, the promoter's brother, H. H. Paulson, Oklahoma City oil man, W. J. Wellman and Mrs. Lillian.

Government prosecutors allege a $500,000 conspiracy which involved more than 15,000 persons lost some of their investments in the C. C. Julian and Royalties Co. and several other enterprises.

Reading of the indictment alone was expected to consume most of today's session of the trial which may last a month.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6.—Herbert K. Hyde, district attorney, has announced that extradition proceedings based upon an alleged income tax default would be brought against C. C. Julian, Canadian oil promoter, if he failed to appear Monday for trial in a charge of conspiracy to violate federal mail fraud laws.

Hyde announced his intention to "jump" a $25,000 bond and seek extradition for Julian and co-receivers here.

While the extradition treaty between Canada and United States does not cover mail fraud cases, Hyde said, Julian's return could be arranged under the treaty.

The prosecutor said the government was "ready" to proceed with the trial of the fraud case, in which Julian, born of Jewish parents on a farm near Morris, Man., and more than 50 other persons are accused of conspiring to defraud investors in the C. C. Julian and Royalties company.

PERSECUTION INVOLVED

The United States government alleges 15,000 stockholders in the Julian company were subjected to $5,000,000.

San Antonio, Texas, District Judge S. G. Taylor decided tentatively Saturday in favor of L. S. Boling, Sam Allen and others, to return the action brought by receivers of the Julian company, to a grand jury of 20,000 money and property from Boling.

The court directed attorneys for both sides to meet with him on Feb. 10, when his final order will be rendered. Boling was publicity man for Julian.

WINNING FEB. 6

An investigation by the United States department was reported to be in Vancouver last night. The investigation was reported to be in Vancouver last night. The investigation was reported to be in Vancouver last night.

Julian who commenced a career here that took him from Texas to millionaire, was in Vancouver recently and was said to have headed off for Winnipeg where several of his relatives reside. All deny knowledge of his whereabouts. He reports the U.S. federal agent in Winnipeg could not be contacted.

In Prince Albert, Sask., and he was a married man with a family. The route over which the two aircraft were flying in the early morning was familiar to both of them, for they had flown it numerous times since the discovery of minerals at Great Bear Lake. The country is rough, hilly and wooded, with thousands of large and small lakes along the course. The larger lakes are generally extensions of the two main rivers of this district, the Mackenzie and the Camoos.

The first named river flows south to John Great Slave lake at Fort Rae. The first river runs north to Great Bear Lake.

This is the third air disaster due to the operations around Great Bear Lake. Three years ago Pilot Vance of Dominion Explorers, plummeted to his death in the depths of Hunter Bay when he lost his plane in a fog. Last summer, Pilot Andy Cruckieck and two mechanics were killed when their plane, hurtled into a hillside in a fog on the Great Bear Lake—Fort Rae route.

The two bodies were found when found, and it is likely that when the missing formations have been examined by Inspector Belcher, that they will be brought to the city for burial.

MORE DETAILS EXPECTED

The full facts will probably never be known, but more details may be expected by Monday afternoon or Tuesday.

Jehol, Once Under Firm Rule of the Manchus, Now Infested by Bandit Hordes

Jehol's glittering past and turbulent present are contrasted in the following article. It is the second of three stories forthcoming for the Edmonton Bulletin readers the North China province that now is being invaded by Japanese forces.

Jehol, whether garbed in splendor or in unpainted tatters, has been accustomed, almost from the first to furnishing the stage, sets for plays of dynastic power, political strategy, personal ambition and conquest.

The chessboard of 13th means but another game of pawns and kings to this vast area of tumbling temples, palaces and hovels.

But now it is no longer a plotting ground or a chessboard for fugitives from the South; it is under the gun, seeking to keep the north safe for China and interfering with Japan's Manchurian plans.

Jehol City, once encircled with a massive wall, has stretched to Jehol Province—and Jehol Province is now some 500 miles in length. It is a relatively new state, broken from old Manchurian alliances.

In contrast to the pompous, elegant "Sons of Heaven," Jehol City was under the command of a product of modern predatory schemes and campaigns. The millions of Manchus and Chinese scattered over the countryside have paid heavily to the bandit chiefs, marauding warriors and Manchurian war lords who followed their own dreams of power after the last Manchu had fled to safety and the flag of the new Chinese republic came to wave in the breeze.

WHEREAS Emperor Kang-Hsi, creator of Jehol, had been kindly, generous and aided the farmers recent invaders have been cruel and greedy money from the purses until Jehol has sunk into poverty and hardship have been the bill to escape famine.

At the moment, the pleasure castle of kings is the headquarters of General Tang Yu-Lin, governor of the Jehol province. Tang Yu-Lin is a graduate of the Manchurian bandit campaigns. His paragon of chieftains, Chang Tzu-Lin, one-time Manchurian chief, who gained control of the northward of the Great Wall after fighting control of the three Manchurian provinces.

General Tang has decided to defend the old town to the end, having ignored Japan's offer of a part in the Manchurian consolidation. Japan is determined to oust him. This was a crafty, if not scheme in his political plans. Kang-Hsi having established friendship with the khans, princes, chiefs and tribes, whose lands and power stretched over a vast area of the north, China Long wanted to crush their loyalty for the Manchus and thus claim as loyal vassals the millions of people who were to be preserved from the point of being driven from India, the powerful Tashi Lama, built a lavish temple for this purpose of the church and altar, a place of prayer and gifts to the very doorway of the Jehol City. # 100,000 Protest British Means' Test

POLICE QUELL GREAT THROG OF JOBLESS

Greatest Mass Gathering in History Herded Into Hyde Park

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The greatest massed gathering of Great Britain's unemployed and their sympathizers since the general strike of 1926 passed off peacefully in Hyde Park Sunday afternoon. The demonstration was called by the Trade Union Congress as a protest against the government's economy policy.

More than 100,000 people were herded into Hyde Park and open spaces by several thousand policemen, mounted and foot, who only on two or three occasions were called upon to quell over-enthusiastic demonstrators.

Only two arrests were made. An ambulance station which had been set up near the meeting place reported that only a few cases had been treated and that none of the injuries was serious.

Columns of people, marching and shouting, carried banners which denounced the means test to test specifying who shall receive the dole as a capitalistic system and voiced many other grievances at the working man.

Fires, drums, bagpipes and in some cases full brass bands escorted the marchers, who held up traffic in the busiest parts of London for an hour or more.

A cold drizzle, driven by strong west winds, did much to dampen

Toronto Woman Slayer Will Try Suicide by Hunger

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—Seeking to cheat the gallows, Mike Trach, convicted murderer of a young woman, is determined to starve himself to death, and since last Saturday, the day he was sentenced to hang, no food has passed his lips.

Trach links hanging with the crucifixion. Death by any means, he avers, would be welcome.

His officials have ordered "frenzied feeding." This is accomplished by three guards, who overpower him while a tube is forced up his nostril and liquid nourishment is administered.

He has tried to commit suicide more than once, since his incarceration in jail. It is said.

Last fall Trach shot and killed Mrs. Annie Nichol, queen of the New Toronto branch colony. He then put a bullet through his brain, but recovered. April 3 is the date of execution.

considerable strutting in consequence.

As many dull, stupid and tiny men can be found in the ranks of the engineering profession, it can be found in the ranks of any other learned profession. That type of engineer hates the inventor. That fellow, amateur engineer, who refuses to allow his mind to be fettered by orthodox engineering practice or to become convinced that enough machines have already been invented.

They go even further and despise progressive members of their own profession such as they who would be capable of becoming associated with the technocrats or kindred schools of progressive engineering. These leisure-loving gentlemen being engineers, are expected to give opinions about technology. They are unable to give opinions about anything very modern. They seldom, if ever even try to think, and prepared opinions about new engineering matters cannot be found in old books. But they can denounce. They were prepared to denounce technocracy long before that word was coined. And they will be prepared to do the same to any progressive ideas that may crop up in the future.

We don't feel competent to give an intelligent opinion about technocracy or to prophesy concerning its future, but we hope to live to see the day when all antiquated and stupid systems of management and control of the people's business will be swept away, and be replaced by some ingenious plan of government.

HOW'S SHE GETTING ON?

One of the most annoying engine knocks is the slap of the piston against a cylinder. This noise usually appears when the motor is cold or while it is idling, and sometimes when the motor is pulling the load.

A temporary relief from the piston slap is due to the increase of clearance between piston and cylinder. This noise usually appears when the motor is cold or while it is idling, and sometimes when the motor is pulling the load.

A piston ordinarily requires a clearance of about one one-hundredth of an inch to each side of cylinder bore. This noise usually appears when the motor is cold or while it is idling, and sometimes when the motor is pulling the load.

This clearance permits the piston to move up and down the cylinder with ease while it is cold, and there is little or no lubrication. It is between the rings and the cylinder wall that the most serious damage is done.

The piston slap becomes apparent after running the car for several thousand miles. At this point the cylinder walls have worn down sometimes to almost twice the original clearance, giving the piston a lot more play.

When the engine is cold and there is little or no oil along the cylinder walls, the pistons have more clearance and therefore are liable to cause the clapping that is heard. As soon as the oil gets up it takes up some of this space as a lubricating film, and when the rings are oiled the pistons expand enough to take up the rest of the space and eliminate the slap.

A temporary relief from the piston slap is the use of heavy oil in the crankshaft. The only practical remedy for the noise, however, is to have the cylinders rebored and overhauls the pistons and rings.

If the motor is not certain enough for the noise, however, is to have the cylinders rebored and overhauls the pistons and rings.

The other check on this noise is to run the motor up to full speed, stop it and listen at the opening where the engine is idling. If the noise is not there, the pistons are not the cause of the noise.

When the engine is cold and there is little or no oil along the cylinder walls, the pistons have more clearance and therefore are liable to cause the clapping that is heard. As soon as the oil gets up it takes up some of this space as a lubricating film, and when the rings are oiled the pistons expand enough to take up the rest of the space and eliminate the slap.

Red Deer Trims Olds 3-1 Before Crowd Of 1,000

OLDS, Feb. 6.—The largest crowd over a thousand people, saw Red Deer take the first of two home and home point season games, at Olds Saturday night, 3 to 1, before a crowd of 1,000.

It was Olds' first home win in 16 starts including two wins from Red Deer. Red Deer's last win was as they put up a better game than Olds. The soft ice did not seem to bother their system of play as much as Olds but both teams overcame the ice.

Red Deer's first goal was scored by a shot from the side line. Olds showed up in the last period and Red Deer had a decided edge in the second frame and kept the local crowd behind their own goal.

Three shots at well getting Hayhoe answered on a neat pass from Chas. Jacobs in four minutes. Olds got their only goal five minutes later when Gooder sent one over the crossbar.

Habitant Machine Will Be Unruffled

EDMONTON

—BILL LEWIS—

Those Eskimos come back from the coast Saturday and were right on the spot. They were a win like Gough would have needed a set of wheels to be dropped down on Jasper Avenue yesterday. They were behind the third-place Saskatoon Canucks and with a dire need for every possible point if they are going to get into the Western Canada League playoffs. The Eskimos were in a spot where they just had to win over the Saturday night team. There was just no way about it.

The Eskos were out there fighting and after that they had a few successive reversals at Vancouver and the Canucks never had a chance. Duke Keats' men were determined to win that game, what would, and they got the Canucks team down and kept 'em down all the way.

That win meant two mighty valuable points to the Eskos. They now have two points in the standings. They go into play Friday night and they have here for the Saturday evening encounter. But they were not resting until the Eskos Keats has ordered morning workouts today and is ready and Thursday to get them right on edge.

If they can get an even break in these two games, they can assist the Bengals, they will be in the playoffs. The Eskos are the play-off berth. And already more than a score of the supporters have made plans to accompany them south for the Friday game to make a cheering section for that important tilt.

In that battle out at the Arena Saturday, I thought one of the Eskos played what was by far the best hockey of the season.

Ernie Kenny, in my way of thinking, turned in what was easily his best display of skill in the game. The big fellow was a power both offensively and defensively all the time. He was in the ice and rarely deserved the goal he scored.

Art Gagne played fine hockey all the game and deserved more than the one point he was credited with. He was brilliant at times and the crowd cheered him on a number of occasions for his great work.

Chubby Scott surprised anything he has played in his career. The rangy left-winger played a fine game from beginning to end. He was in the ice and rarely deserved the goal he scored.

Buster Huffman was another who came through with a sparkling performance. His play in the ice was brilliant. He was in the ice and rarely deserved the goal he scored.

And the work of Earl Roberts was consistently good. He was in the ice and rarely deserved the goal he scored.

Incidentally, Keats received a warning from the referee for his rough play. The referee was in the ice and rarely deserved the goal he scored.

But the Duke is confident that his team has the necessary ability and he believes that they will be able to get it out of them. He was in the ice and rarely deserved the goal he scored.

Players Emotional as Owner Makes Known His Plans

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—Candidates for the National Hockey League Stanley Cup victories in the past three years is being dismantled. Leo Dandurand, managing director of the National Hockey League Club, announced to his players and the press that the team is being sold to the other league clubs on the waiting list of five men now members of the league.

PLAYERS WORRIED

No names were mentioned by the little sportsman, who, with his partner, Joe Cattarino, controls the ownership of the Canadiens. The players, and other sporting veterans, were a gloomy, dispirited group of players who gathered at the Canadiens dressing room at the Forum following the 2-2 defeat inflicted by Montreal Maroons.

LEO MOURNS

Dandurand was to tell his men that drastic measures were in order. He had watched and waited for a month in the hope the team would pull out of its slump but with little prospect of success, he decided the team was to be sold.

WHEAT GIVEN GOOD HOISTS AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6.—Strength at Chicago, induced by unfavorable reports of the condition of United States winter wheat crop, was almost entirely responsible for substantial gains in wheat values on the grain exchange here today. Liverpool was also steady, although there was very little export business, wheat prices closed 1 1/2 higher.

May closed at 47 1/2, July at 47 1/2 and October at 48 1/2.

Chicago led the way to higher prices. The southern strength was attributed to very light crop news from the southwest. Reports stated mild weather will help the roots of the new grain expand and fear previous cold weather will cause further damage to young seedlings, but the Chicago market held steady to close 1 1/2 higher for the day.

Soviet Prisoners Carving Huge Canal

RUSSIA SAVANT REVEALS VAST HIDDEN CITIES

100,000 Men Digging Great Ditch Equal to Panama

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—From the desolate region between the Arctic Ocean and the White Sea, where there is daylight only two and a half months of the year, a student of Russian life today has brought back stories of vast underground towns springing up overnight to unexpected wealth.

Dr. Joseph Kunitz, former professor of Russian language at City College, also told how 100,000 prisoners are carving out a canal as big as that in Panama which they expect to finish by May 1.

"Eighty per cent of the population is made up of what were once known as kulaks—peasants who through cupidity or extraordinary industry or both have grown rich," he said. "The government, wishing to equalize matters in the villages, sent them up there. Those to whom he talked, Dr. Kunitz said, had no desire to leave the once desolate region.

The New Yorker went to Khiberg, a town of 12,000 that has "materialized" up within a year, and to Murmansk, even farther north, a port on the Arctic ocean. Industrial towns, he said, are rising overnight.

"Their schools are better than those elsewhere in Russia. In that town of Khiberg they have a cinema and civic center. In fact, the mark the government maintains an academy of science to study possibilities of the north.

"Their public bath is a wonder. You go in, leave your clothing for the laundry, and in 35 minutes you receive it back, washed and ironed."

The canal is materializing a dream of 200 years. The Canal was first conceived commercially and strategically, but never got nearer to building it than sending expeditions to the Arctic. The canal will supplement the single-track railroad in Leningrad and will carry coal, phosphates, aluminum and lumber.

French President Cuts Own Salary

PARIS, Feb. 6.—The first one-third employee—President Albert Lebrun—voluntarily cut his salary during the recent attempt to balance the French budget. He sent word to the premier to cut his own salary 10 per cent.

The president receives $2,000 per year, with a like sum for upkeep of his private and traveling expenses.

AMUSEMENTS

PRINCESS

One of the most anticipated productions of the new movie season comes to the Princess theatre starting today with the co-starring appearance of Clark Gable and Jean Harlow in "Red Dust." Filmmaker of the Wilson Collaps may, Gable, who still retains his title as the screen's most popular male star, and Mae Harlow of the sensational "platinum tress," first appeared together in the racketeer melodrama, "The Secret Six."

EMPIRE

They have at last had to try to apply the official rules of dramatics to George Bernard Shaw. He always has shown contempt for rules and regulations, and with each additional play he has found a few more of them to violate. The strange thing about it is that when his critics recover from their outrage at the violation, they are compelled to note that, rules or no rules, G. B. S. has turned out another masterpiece piece of work.

This is especially true of "Too True to Be Good," which Barry Jones and Maurice Colbourne will present at the Empire theatre tonight and tomorrow night.

He lets his characters run a playful game of wits and nonsense, discussing everything from Communism to Technology. He even discusses the extraneous with one character who looks and talks like G. B. S. himself.

In "Too Good to Be True," Shaw proceeds on the same line. The oldsters have made a sorry job of the business of meeting up with the young.
